Call for Papers

You're a student in medicine, life sciences, psychology, or medical humanities?

You're passionate about science?

You would like to publish your thesis, term paper, essay or any other research, but you don't know where to begin?

Publish with us!

We are an open-access, peer-reviewed, scientific journal from students for students! With us, you can experience the steps to publish science and make use of any of your already produced research. Submit today and contribute to open science with your own research!
