

Applications are open for High Impact Medicine's Career Planning Course!

The world faces enormous health challenges - from preventable disease to pandemics and biosecurity threats.

Medical students and doctors have huge untapped potential to help solve these problems.

The Hi-Med Career Planning Course (CPC) guides you to a career path that aligns with your values and maximises your impact.

The CPC is a 6-week small-group program for medics who want to make a meaningful difference with their careers, but are unsure of their next steps.

This will be the 11th cohort of the CPC.
Previous participants say the course gave them clarity, direction, and concrete next steps.

Key points:

Competitive enrolment
Weekly small group discussions online, guided by a facilitator
Course starts the week of November 2
1.5 hours/week plus time for worksheet exercises
Certificate awarded for course completion
Application deadline Sunday October 4

Further details and applications:

<https://www.highimpactmedicine.org/career-planning>

*High Impact Medicine is a non-profit organization.
Because millions die from preventable diseases and face biosecurity threats, we work globally with medical students and doctors to guide them to careers that maximize their impact on solving the world's most pressing health problems.
www.highimpactmedicine.org*